Field Trip to Old Town

On Tuesday, November 20th we took a field trip to Old town. Alfredo explains: "We played at the playground and if you wanted to play first you could play but if you wanted to eat first you could eat. Then we had places we could choose to go. You could go with a staff to any place in Old Town. I went to the dinosaur museum. We played I spy we went up the stairs. My favorite part was to see the 3D movie, out there was on part about the glasses, when you take them off you can't see the movie as good. Bella added, " I just went to the art museum. So I saw like pictures of like palm trees, and like a gas station. There was a picture frame that you could take pictures in. In front there a square with dots on it, it was like a sculpture I think, but you couldn't touch it. There was also a wall that was pretty cool, it had glass that I couldn't ever see. I thought it was invisible. "

Sensory Exploration Club

On Monday November 12th we made moon sand. Asher explains how we made it. "I think it was vinegar, a little bit of baby oil and flour and then all we had to do was mix it. If it felt hard we could play with it." Zac added. "I'm building a sand castle, they cut my hand off! No they're just borrowing it. The cracks are causing the erosion. You're moving and causing the cracks. I think GG will be easier 'cause she doesn't move as much." "It felt oily and a little bit like kinetic sand." Sophia described.

Turkey Feast

On Monday, November 19th we had a turkey feast. Anna said "It was good, I helped pass the turkey down the seats. We had to pass all the plates back up which took a while. We had some turkey, a muffin, pumpkin pie I think, and a Capri Sun. I sat by Mallory and Aya. I had some skin to the turkey which was really good. We are going to do it again next year. We have been doing it since I was in first grade."

We continued Sensory Exploration Club on Friday, November 16th we made Oobleck. Jeremiah said, "It feels so disgusted. It's like the Dr. Seuss story. Oobleck is considered a liquid and a solid. Lora added, "It was really hard in the bowl". Evan explains, "So everyone was playing with Oobleck, JT was putting the speaker in a bag to kind of make the Oobleck turn to slime." John said, "Well when you put the Oobleck on the speaker it wiggled a little bit but not that much." The kids came up with some ideas to make the Oobleck dance: put more corn starch or get a bigger speaker.
