

The ADO News

March 13th, 2023

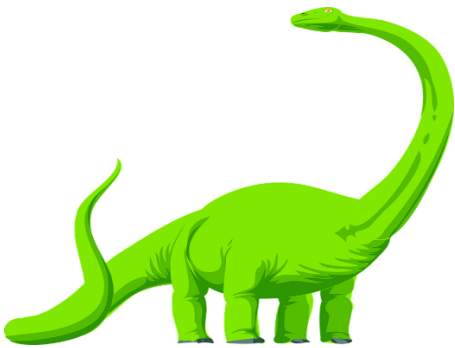

Hey kids? Do you want to go on a field trip?! Yeahh!!! After a few months off the Arroyo Del Oso crew was back out in the world, this time checking out the New Mexico Museum of Natural History and Science. The museum has a little bit of everything natural, but the big draw is always the dinosaurs. What was your favorite part of the museum? The dinosaur that moves! I think it's a T-Rex. I like riding the bus. Yeah, me and my sister never ride the bus, our Dad takes us. Why did we go to the museum? To learn about the past. History! For something fun to do. Would you go back and visit again? Yeah, cause we didn't go to the gift shop. I wanna get a stuffed stegosaurus. And see the dinosaur move again.

The NM Museum of Natural History and Science is a very affordable group outing, with group tickets coming in under $5 per person!

A brief message from Charles, who was recently promoted to Associate Director: I was born in Albuquerque and spent lots of holidays as a kid visiting family here. After high school I moved from Ft. Hood, Texas to go to college at UNM where I graduated with a BA in Psychology. After graduating I helped my grandparents build a house and then I started working at Childrens's Choice. I love playing video games and basketball, reading, hiking and camping.

Charles wants parents to know: He loves this job because it's really easy to have a good time. Kids: If you join our program it's really easy to have a good time. We have great activities and you're likely to make lots of new friendships.

WHAT'S COMING UP?

We'll be working with veggies for the next few weeks, trying healthy snacks the kids can easily prepare for themselves or their families.

My time is divided between ADO and Northstar these days, but I'm still doing lots of outdoors activities focusing on hand-eye coordination, ambidexterity, and teamwork.

Mikaela

Hi, I'm new to Arroyo Del Oso but I went here when I was a kid, and I know quite a few kids from combined days at Inez and Sombra. I love to goof around and I'll be working on getting to know names and faces.

Gonzalo

I have had some surprising success with larger group activities so I'll be organizing more relays and scavenger hunts around the site that all of the kids can do.

Tessa

Spring weather means the children are spending lots more time outside. I'll be doing some chalk art games and drawing activities these next Thursdays and Fridays.

Staffing got moved around a little bit but I think I will continue elements of Zoey's Self Care Club as well as Show and Tell with the kids. Don't forget Homework Club is every day at 2:15!
