Director Notes

Hello,
I hope the fall is treating you all well. I look forward to creating new memories and relationships with this community over the years.
As a mom of two I have come to realize that time is precious and it really does fly by.
"Our future lies with today's kids and tomorrow's space exploration."

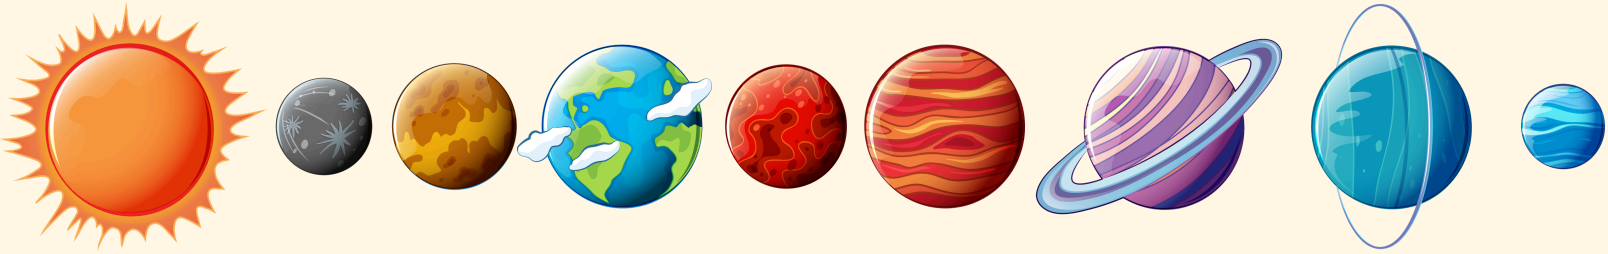
What's Happening

Surviving The Massive Web

The children participated in a laser maze challenge where red string was stretched across the hallway to create obstacles they had to carefully navigate through without touching the strings. They took turns crawling, stepping over, and moving around the strings to make their way through the maze. The activity encouraged problem-solving, critical thinking, balance, coordination, patience, and body awareness while allowing the children to challenge themselves, have fun, and cheer each other on. Ben(5 yrs)"This is gonna be easy."

Mr . and Mrs. What, Mr. and Mrs. Who

A blast from the past, the kids have been enjoying one of the most iconic toys of the century. Potato Heads? Yup, they are back in session and the kids have been using their imagination, creating the most exquisite potato familes ever. Who would have thought you could use an arm as a pony tail?
"This family has triplets but they are all different. Some have hair, some have no arms, and some only have one leg."
Lucas



Inez Rockets

We made our own rockets out of cups rubber bands and art supplies.
"I'm going to make my rocket like the one for our school!" Alex.
"I'm going to use the straws as the parts on the side, just like a real rocket" Lyrianna
"Maybe if we put more rubber bands, the rocket will launch higher!" Xavier
We came to the conclusion that the thicker the rubber bands, the more it held together and shot up our rockets. We tested them outside and had a fun time seeing who can make theirs launch highest!

"It's an Avocado... Thanks"

This was an avocado exploration activity, where kids explore the avocado by observing its color, texture, shape, smell, and inside structure. They made predictions of the measurements for each ingredient and ended up making a big bowl of delicious guacamole!! While Penelope helped cut the avacodas she stated"Whoa, the seed is so big!" AmyLiana stated "The outside feels bumpy, but the inside is soft!" Zander helped cut away at the tomatoes while stating "I'm cutting it into tiny pieces!" This activity allowed kids to ask questions, make discoveries, and learn through exploration, while also making some delicious guscamole.
