HALLOWEEN RUNWAY

Our Halloween celebration was full of creativity, confidence, and some seriously spooky style! The kids got to show off their amazing costumes during our very own Halloween Runway!

Saniaah and Meluh took charge of the entire show, making sure everyone came out at the right time, walked the runway, and struck their best pose at the end! These two worked together to keep the show running smoothly and made sure everyone had their moment in the spotlight.

From spooky Ghostface to sweet Dorothy, Stitch, Hermione Granger, M3GAN, and so many more, our runway was filled with incredible characters! Each child brought their own personality to the stage, showing off their costumes with confidence and creativity.

A huge shoutout to Saniaah and Meluh for their awesome leadership and to all of our runway stars for making this Halloween one to remember!

DIA DE LOS MUERTOS

This week, we came together to celebrate Día de los Muertos, or Day of the Dead! Our children learned about this beautiful Mexican tradition that honors and remembers loved ones who have passed away. Together, we created a community ofrenda filled with love, memories, and colorful decorations.

Our ofrenda featured photographs of loved ones, shared by members of our community. The children also got creative by making their own clay sugar skulls, inspired by the colorful decorations associated with the holiday. We placed food on the ofrenda, learning how favorite foods and special offerings can help honor those we remember.

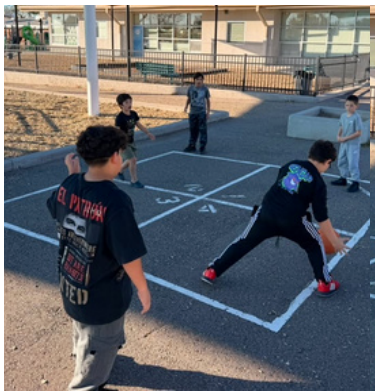

More than anything, this celebration gave our children an opportunity to share stories, celebrate different cultures, and understand that the people we love can continue to hold a special place in our hearts.

FOUR SQUARE COMMUNITY BUILDING

Four Square on the playground has been a more popular playground activity as the smemester has gone on, but our kiddos have made it more of a community building game with kids from different grades and experience!

We have had a lot of progress with communication, creating more room for others to join, teaching others as they play, and setting up a vote system to allow others to make mistakes and have the ability to get back in and try again. They have been able to discuss between each other what it is just a game and that sometimes its okay to mess up.

TYE-DYE BANDANAS!

Tye-Dye Bandanas with Lumen! Stretching creative muscles and learning a new medium, the kids got to do tye-dye with bandanas using different strategies and colors to create these awesome pieces!

They were allowed to take them home afterwards and even wore them throughout the week! It was such a fun activity to catch the interest of kids of all ages and even have kiddos who don't typically lean towards artsy activities.

MUSICAL CHAIRS

This week morning program got to participate in early morning musical chairs! The kids utilized the music area to start a game of musical chairs on their own, they made the challenge and decided who would play the music.
They were also able to play without shoving or pushing and keeping the game kind no matter who joined. The kids were inclusive, had a great time using things that we already had in program, and were able to start a game without the direction of a staff.
